Allen, Edith B. Functioning of Mycorrhizae in natural and disturbed ecosystems. pp. 31-33.

Belnap, Jayne. Impacts of soil surface trampling: a case study in Arches National Park. (abstract) p. 44.

Goodlett, Glenn C., Tracy Goodlett, and William I. Boarman. A radio transmitter attachment technique for desert tortoise research. (abstract) p. 36.

Homer, Bruce L., Kristin H. Berry, Frank Ross, Carlos Reggiardo, and Elliot R. Jacobson. Potentially toxic metals and minerals in liver and kidney of desert tortoises in California. pp. 34-35.

Krzysik, Anthony J. Robust estimators for the distribution and density patterns of desert tortoise populations on landscape scales. (abstract) p. 51.

Medica, Philip A., Harold W. Avery, and Jeffrey E. Lovich. Localized mid-summer rainfall: its effects on perennial plant phenology, and importance to the desert tortoise (Gopherus agassizii). (abstract) p. 50.

Okamoto, Chris L. Color, calcium, and insect choice trials of captive juvenile desert tortoises (Gopherus agassizii). (abstract) p. 54.

Pond, Darlene. Education of the public concerning the desert tortoise plight (what captive tortoises can do to assist in this program. (abstract) p. 52.

Talarico, Jul, and Elizabeth B. Wirt. Summer selection of sheltersites by the desert tortoise, Gopherus agassizii. (abstract) p. 50.
